Character Collage Make a digital or handmade collage that captures everything about your favourite character from the book. Follow the suggested prompts to come up with creative ideas or make up your own to suit your character!	It Happens Here! Learn way more about your book's setting—the time and place of the story—by researching and discovering clues that could enhance your reading experience and understanding of the book. (For example, a Mi'kmaw camp in rural NL during the early nineteenth century.)	Fan Fiction PDF eBook Build on the story of your book by adding to any aspect and creating your very own pdf eBook. For example, imagine what adventures your characters get into five, even ten years from now... come up with a different ending to the book, and so on. Keep it short! (1-2 pages).
Scene It! Think back to a simple but important scene from your book. Now, develop a script for a short skit to share it with the class. This can be a one-person act or a whole group activity... you get to decide!	Open Idea Imagine a project idea based on your book. Develop a detailed plan and present it to your teacher!	Jeopardy Game Based on your book, create an interactive Jeopardy game to play with the class. Include fun trivia questions too! This is a whole group or partnered activity!
Write the Author Write a convincing letter to persuade the author of your book to write a prequel or a sequel. Explain your reasoning by connecting your ideas to aspects of their current book. Find their email and send it! (Who knows, if it's written really well, you might even get a response!)	Soundtrack It! Pick one or two themes from your book and pair the mood or tone of each scene to music. Next, create an online journal entry explaining why this scene evoked this kind of mood for you. Make sure to include a link to your music, with the performer and song title, for a fully immersive experience.	Make a Book Trailer! Using iMovie, create a 2-3 min book trailer designed to entice people to want to read your book. Remember you'll need to storyboard this and may also wish to include a title card, music and credits! This can be an individual or a whole group activity. Have fun!
